DETAILED ACTION

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Information Disclosure Statement

The IDSs submitted 21 July 2005, 17 October 2005, and 15 December 2006 have been considered by the Examiner.

Examiner's Comment

In claims 2, 3, 7, and 11, the claims refer to preferable ranges, beyond the broader range. These preferable ranges are not given any weight. Should the applicant want protection for those ranges the ranges should be claimed separately.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 and 9-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Stotzel et al., U.S. Patent 5,656,560 in view of Stachowiak, U.S. Patent 6,475,626.

Stotzel et al. teach a grey glass composition having overlapping ranges of components with instant claims 1, 4-7, and 9. See Abstract of Stotzel et al., column1, lines 5-17, and column 3, lines 10-20. Overlapping ranges have been held to establish prima facie obviousness. See MPEP 2144.05. Stotzel et al. teach that the grey soda-lime silicate glass is made by the float method. See Abstract of Stotzel et al. and column2, lines 14-23. Stotzel et al. further teaches that the grey flat glass is building glass. See column 1, lines 18-20.

Stotzel et al. fail to teach that the glass is thermally toughened, used as a laminate or has a metal oxide film for IR reflection.

Stachowiak teaches that grey glasses are used as substrates for coated articles that include having IR reflecting layers. See column 3, lines 39-48, and column 4, lines 19-43. Stachowiak also teaches that the glass sheet is from 1 to 12 mm thick. See column 4, lines 21-23. Stachowiak further teaches that the glass substrate can be thermally treated, including thermal tempering or toughening. See column 4, lines 1-10.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have a coated grey soda-lime silicate glass of Stotzel et al. as suggested by Stachowiak because the resultant glass would have the superior IR reflecting optical properties.

One of ordinary skill in the art would expect that a glass with overlapping compositional ranges would have the properties as recited in claims 1-5 and 11.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 8 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The further limitation of requiring the gray soda-lime silicate glass having the specific total iron oxide, cobalt oxide, and nickel oxide to not contain any selenium or manganese oxide renders this claim allowable.
